Staircase Styles

There are so many different styles of staircase it can often get if you are not sure which is which. We have broken our staircases down into six categories with a brief explanation to help you choose the right style for you.

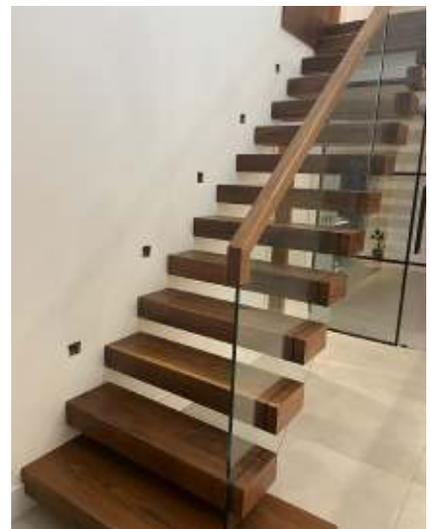

Steel Mono Stringer Staircases

Our steel mono stringer consists of a powder coated solid metal stringer up the centre of the staircase giving the floating effect. Finished with floating treads of any material of the customer's choice and aesthetic. 15mm clear toughened glass is fitted to the staircase with either hidden fixing caps to match up with the floating treads or the glass can be bolted using steel fixings in the customer's choice of colour. The steel mono stringer will without a doubt be the heart of your home.

Floating Cantilever Staircases

Our cantilever staircases are a big feature our customers like to incorporate into their hallways. The cantilever staircase entails steel stringers fitted to the wall before the plaster work is applied to create the look of the floating staircase. Treads are then fitted onto the steel post plaster work in any material of your desire. Our cantilever staircase can be fitted with 15mm clear toughened glass with end hidden cap fixings to create the minimalist railing look.

Spindle Staircases

Spindle staircases can often be mistaken as a “traditional staircase” however we believe spindle staircases have a very modern effect on your home. Our spindles come in an endless number of styles, colours, and materials to achieve your desired goal. Metal spindles can be powder coated to the perfect ral colour to match up the aesthetic of your home while our wooden spindles can be French polished in the same way. Spindle staircases will always be a staircase to catch the eye.

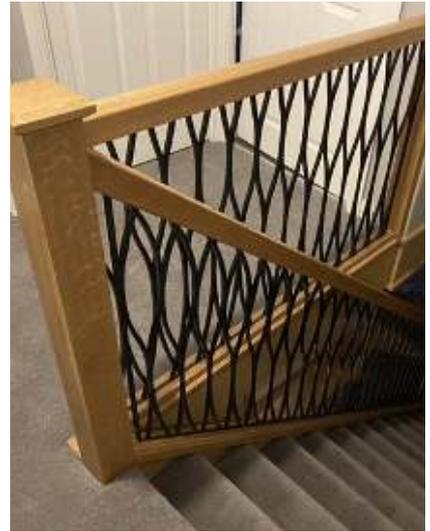

Piano Staircases

Our piano staircases are created often using 2 different types of wood to create the contrast between the tread and the riser on your staircase. Our piano staircases can have any balustrade of your choice.

Metal Conversions

Conversions are always the answer for someone who wants to change up their staircase. Metal conversions are a new addition to the vast range of styles we offer. Metal conversions consist of metal panels powder coated in your desired colour and pattern. There are a range of different styles and colours to choose from.

Glass Conversions

Glass conversions are another type of conversion we offer at GL Joinery. Glass conversions can transform your hallway into an open and airy space making your house a home. Glass can be either grooved in making it seamless or fixed onto brackets to match up with your existing door handle aesthetic.

Here's a collection of our most popular staircases to help you decide on the look that's right for you.

The Waterside

A staircase out of the ordinary!

Powder coated laser cut wave steel fitted beautifully into this solid oak standard string staircase.

Finished with oak newel posts, handrails, and a large bullnose.

This staircase was French polished by our skilled French polishers in a clear lacquer to protect the staircase for many years to come.

The Chilton

Unique is the best word to describe The Chilton. Months of preparation and manufacturing went into this custom-made oak spiral staircase made for one of our clients in Yarm, North Yorkshire.

Finished with a bespoke made circular centre crown as the heart of this staircase with solid oak square spindles.

We worked with the customer and their interior designer to get the perfect rail colour of this stunning staircase.

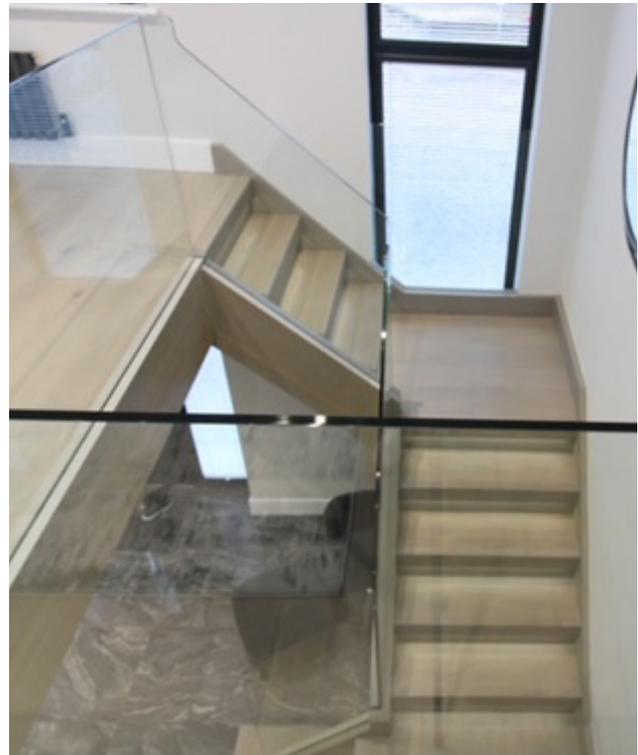

Our French polisher matched the staircase perfectly and we believe we really achieve something special with this staircase!

The Northwood

This closed string staircase with solid oak treads and risers was finished with oversized 100mm tread nosing to the customers specifications.

Our French polishers received the task of perfectly matching this staircase to the clients existing flooring. Along with the client, we believe our French polishers achieved this task to their best ability.

We worked alongside the electricians on this job to allow the client to achieve the goal of integrated lights in the staircase.

The Wheatland

Finished in a solid black French polish. This staircase is the heart of our client's home in Redcar, Cleveland.

A solid oak standard string with grooved in 10mm clear toughened glass to create a minimalistic look.

This staircase also has a bespoke made double bullnose to the bottom step to feature.
